

MUCH MUNICIPAL BUSINESS

MANY CITY HALL MEETINGS LISTED FOR THIS WEEK.

Winding Up the Business of the Year—Aldermen to Meet To-night and Councilmen, Police and Fire Commissioners, Selectmen and Board of Health To-morrow Evening.

The close of the year always brings increased business in municipal matters and the present year will prove no exception to this invariable rule. During the present week municipal meetings are listed for every evening and for several of the evenings a number of meetings are arranged. The week will prove an unusually busy one for the members of the city government, and it is probable that in view of the vast amount of business to be completed several extra meetings will also have to be held next week.

To-night a special meeting of the board of aldermen will be held at which time an attempt will be made to complete the regular unfinished business of the year and also to consider the estimated expenses and income of the city for the coming year. It is also expected that at this meeting City Auditor Brown will submit his annual statement of the income and expenditures of the several departments of the city government for the fiscal year ending November 30, 1895.

Among the unfinished business to be brought up and acted upon will be the back ordinance and the ordinance relating to the sprinkling of the streets of the city. In reference to the back ordinance Alderman Bromley will introduce an amendment to the report of the committee regulating the action of hackmen at the Union station and will also introduce a resolution prohibiting the use of Latin words in the records of the court of common council. Further action on the proposed ordinance relating to street sprinkling, which was so changed at the last meeting of the aldermen that, as a member of the board expressed it, "its own father wouldn't recognize it," may be deferred until another special meeting of the board to be called later, in order to give the members of the board of councilmen an opportunity to decide whether or not they will accept the ordinance as amended.

To-morrow night will be the banner night of the week for municipal meetings. On that evening will be held a special meeting of the board of councilmen called for the purpose of considering the estimates of the city for the present fiscal year. There is, however, considerable unfinished business on the table of the branch of the city government, and consequently it is among the probabilities that the matter of estimates may not be reached to-morrow night after all.

The police commissioners also have a meeting listed for to-morrow night and already there is so much business to come before them that it is possible that they may not be able to complete it, but may also be compelled to call another meeting for some evening later in the week. Among the business to be transacted is the hearing of the charges brought against Patrolman L. D. Bixby by the hackmen at the depot, and judging from the number of citizens who have expressed their intention of being present and heard in relation to this case, it is quite probable that the hearing will be unusually lengthy. Patrolman Donegan will also be brought before the board to explain his alleged connection with a meat market in direct violation of the rules of the department.

The other meetings listed for to-morrow night are board of selectmen, fire commissioners, board of health and library directors, while on Wednesday evening the board of public works will hold a specially interesting session and there will also be meetings of several of the joint standing committees of the court of common council.

He spoke of the active service of his regiment, the Fourteenth New York State Volunteers, while they were at the front.

An interesting letter was read from Comrade E. W. Sperry, who is now located at Button Bay, St. Croix, West Indies.

Death of Thomas Lynch.
Thomas Lynch died at the home of his father, Morris Lynch, on Wallace street yesterday. Deceased was a very estimable young man, whose memory will be warmly cherished by many friends. He had been ill about a year and a half with consumption. All that kind friends and the best medical skill could do for him were unavailing. He was well known to a large number of people, and was for quite a period a clerk at the gentlemen's furnishing goods department of Malley, Neely & Co.

DROWNED IN THE LAKE.

Sad Fatality at Lake Whitney Saturday Evening—Death of John Lowe, a Well Known Young Millman.

As John Lowe, a millman of Whitneyville, who lived near the lake, was skating on the second lake, Whitneyville, Saturday evening at about 9 o'clock, and when about half way between the first bridge and the refreshment house he skated on to thin ice ten or twelve feet from the west shore, and broke through. He shouted for help, and four young men who were skating down the lake hastened to his aid.

A. S. Potter and Maurice Brennan, who live at 21 Warren street, were the first to reach the spot, and close behind them were Lafayette Jacques of 22 Chestnut street and a student named Clark, who lives at 281 Crown street. There is a swift current near the west bank of the lake, and the ice is seldom safe for twenty feet from the bank. It was merely coated with thin ice last night, and when the four young men reached that portion of the lake they found Lowe struggling in the water about ten feet distant and midway between the edge of the solid ice and the shore. He repeated his cries for help when the young men approached. "Swim this way," cried Brennan. "I can't swim! I can't swim!" called back the man in the water. Those were his last words, but he continued to struggle desperately to keep himself above water. Brennan lay flat on the ice on his stomach, and with Potter holding him by the feet he crawled to the very edge of the solid ice. The water had risen above the ice at this point, and the young men lay in several inches of water. Seeing that they could not reach the man in the water, Jacques skated to the refreshment house for a ladder, and Clark and Potter crossed to the east shore and returned with a small tree they had found lying on the bank. Jacques had found a ladder, but it was taken from him by some men at the refreshment house, who said there was no one in the water.

Meanwhile the man in the water had sank twice. Brennan and Potter again crawled along the submerged ice pushing the tree before, and had pushed it within a few feet of the drowning man when he went down the third time clenching at the branches as he disappeared. He did not come to the surface again. The young men secured the drowned man's hat, which they took to the central police station.

Later in the evening Constable Cook was notified and going to the scene of the drowning with some assistants succeeded in finding the body. It was about ten feet from shore, where the water was about fifteen feet deep.

An attempt was made to resuscitate the drowned man at a house near by to which the body was taken by P. B. Lukens, Yale '98, and Thompson, whose father is a physician, directed the efforts made to resuscitate the man. The young men who tried to rescue the drowning man were thoroughly wet and chilled through in their brave work owing to crawling upon the thin ice and ice which was in places partly covered by water.

The deceased young man, John S. Lowe, who was about twenty-three years of age, was the only support of his four younger sisters, who resided with him. His father died when he was sixteen years of age, leaving a wife and nine children, eight girls and one son. The mother died a few years ago. The young man kept no record of his milk route other than the entry of the names of the customers in a book, and his customers are desired to send their names to Mr. E. A. Wells, 231 Edgewood avenue, this city, a young gentleman who has very courteously undertaken to obtain if possible the full list of patrons who were supplied with milk by the deceased, and their addresses, as the deceased also left no record of their addresses. The deceased previous to engaging in supplying milk worked for James H. Webb on the Webb farm. He resided in the house opposite the parsonage of Rev. Mr. Clark, pastor of Whitneyville church, who will officiate at the funeral of deceased, which will take place this afternoon.

ENJOYED BY THOUSANDS.

The Skating at Lake Whitney—Many Young People Out on the Lake Yesterday.

The skating at Lake Whitney was never finer and was enjoyed by multitudes of people Saturday, many young ladies being among the number, and there were several hundred young people at the lake skating yesterday, mostly boys. The skating was never finer than it is at present and the ice is six inches in thickness and of undoubted safety, except inshore, where the current runs too swiftly, the places of danger being easily avoidable. There is no ice formed yet on the main lake below the first bridge. All the skating is above the first bridge, where the lake is much narrower and the current less swift. The water in the lake is higher than usual this year and the current is swift, which prevents the ice from forming rapidly on the lake between the first bridge and the dam. There was no end of hilarity as the merry throngs last Saturday enjoyed the healthful and bracing sport. It was a gala day. The sun shone brightly and the weather was not objectionably cold, which made the fun all the livelier, especially as the few preceding days had been bitter cold days—regular February days. The school girls were out in force—high school girls, boarding school girls, training school girls and the older of the graded school girls, besides many other girls not addicted to schools at present, and their presence lent special life and interest to the gay and happy scenes. Winter has started in to reign quite early this year, and the ice king is making things lively.

On all the lakes and ponds in and about New Haven there were similar jolly scenes Saturday.

Dr. Heidemann's museum of anatomy at 97 Crown street continues to attract great attention. It is an exhibition unique and of scientific value to all intelligent persons. Each object shown is of great value, and as much of anatomy can be learned from a visit to this museum as from considerable study of text. The collection has been prepared with great care and labor, and deserves a visit from all interested in anatomical study. The exhibition remains here only a few days longer.
